Four years. It has many meanings. The term of a president . . . a bachelor's degree . . . the Class of 77. The year 1977 saw the largest class to ever graduate from Clearwater High School. With the opening of Pinellas Park High, many underclassmen saw their friends go on to a new experience.

A 1977 Renaissance. Flowing through corridors that yearn for the probing student. Asking the all-important question that puts everything in place. A grin from the knowing teacher provides a last surge of mental energy from the student. Alas, the answer!

This year saw a trend toward original thinking that grew from a rebirth of learning. College seemed as it could never be as good. Yet, many days were spent waiting for that all important letter from the postman.

Exciting Changes Hit CHS

After many years of beating the heat by opening windows and doors, air conditioning found its way to Clearwater High. Although classes were disrupted by noises, workmen, and constant movement of materials, the results were well worth the distractions. A new synthetic gym floor replaced the termite-ridden wood that saw many champion-ship seasons come and go.

Killing the doldrums. Going to a concert with your favorite people and getting lost in a wailing guitar or piano solo. Seeing the Tampa Bay Rowdies come close to winning a second NASL championship. Speculating on whom the Buccaneers would lose to next until a close game with Miami turned heads. More and more Clearwater, St. Petersburg, and Tampa became the megalopolis called Tampa Bay.

Variety Showed In Free Time

Varying interests. Finding something to do beyond the five hours spent daily in class. Glancing at watches to see when the next club meeting is. Going to the pool to view dozens of bodies touching one end only to turn back and touch the other hour after hour. Strolling into the stadium, and seeing an athlete going to the limit of endurance.

Students Flipped Out

Expressing oneself. Doing it as only a Clearwater student can. Going for a gold medal in the junior Olympics as Joe Sherman did. Trotting across Arcturas to spend an afternoon at the Green Frog Creek Outdoor Science Lab. Grabbing a musical instrument to make a sound come alive.

Innovations Flourished

Tornado Spirit Was Versatile

Getting fired up. Attempting to make Friday night the most exciting time of the week. Shaving heads for a psychological advantage unmatched by anyone. Catching the wind and flying to destinations beyond the horizon. The moods of C.H.S. were reflected in all that was done both on campus and off.

Striving to achieve the greatness associated with Clearwater High is the aim of the competitive student. Awards for scholarship, athletic ability, and outstanding community service were presented to these accomplished people. Banquets and assemblies were the presentation places that produced many exciting moments in the high school careers of CHS students.

The nomination and selection of seniors for the Hall of Fame was an extremely difficult task for teachers in 1977. Teachers selected sixteen students from a list of thirty eight nominations. Criteria for nominations consisted of academic ability, activity in clubs, sports, leadership, character, spirit, and overall service to school and community.

NHS Adopted New Induction

The National Honor Society of Clearwater High School inducted eighty-one new members in December. The society held the first donut sale of the school year to raise money for park benches. A new system was developed for selection in which seniors with a 3.5 grade point average and juniors with a 3.7 grade point average were asked to fill out an application for membership. The applications were then voted on by the faculty and finalists were notified in the traditional tapping ceremony.

Publications Honored Excellence

The Clearwater Chapter of Quill and Scroll had one of its busiest years promoting friendship and excellence in high school journalism. The first annual Pub Bowl, held at Philippe Park between Clearlight and Aqua Clara, was won by Aqua Clara 14-6 at the Quill and Scroll picnic.

Students must have a 2.8 grade point average and have contributed a worthwhile effort to a publication.

Staters Practiced Clean Politics

Delegates to Florida American Legion Boys' and Girls' State were selected by their American History teachers at the end of their junior year. They were sent to Tallahassee for a week during the summer to learn and practice governmental procedures. Staters campaigned for mock city, county, and state offices before holding elections to decide who the leaders would be. Kevin Calderbank was voted in as Marshal of the Supreme Court, the highest position won by a CHS student.

SHS Invited Third Year Students

The Clearwater High chapter of the Spanish National Honor Society grew in huge numbers since the addition of third year Spanish students to the club. Grades of B or better were required to be selected for the club. Mrs. Pontrello was the sponsor of the club.

Students Excelled In Fluency

Delta Epsilon Phi is a national honorary society for students maintaining a 3.8 average in German and a 2.9 overall grade point average. This group is composed of tenth, eleventh, and twelfth graders. Jimmy Baggett, head of the language department, is the advisor. Selection for this honor recognizes a student's efforts to attain proficiency in the German language.

The faculty took over the job of selecting the Citizen of the Month which had been traditionally a function of the National Honor Society. The honored students through February were Jamie Hunt, Mary Hickert, Jon Toigo, Sally Hancock, and Lula Jacobs.

Many individual achievements were recognized during the year in school and club activities. Students received awards for performances in industrial arts, Home Economics, FBLA, and Home Economics, FBLA, and photography.

Five seniors qualified for National Merit Finals as Semi Finalists. They were Lisa Brown, Jamie Hunt, Karen Crook, Linda Hoopes, and John Tucker.

The CHS quiz team, headed by captains Bob Zurales and Craig Ceely, competed on High Q and Categorically Speaking but failed to put CHS in the number one position. position.

Performances Were Superior

In a continuing tradition, five swimmers were honored as All American by breaking into the top 20 high school times, in individual events, in the nation.

The Math club competed in the National Math Test and sent the CHS Math Team to the Math Field Day which they hoped to win for the third time.

ROTC Cadets Excelled

The Clearwater unit of the Marine Corps JROTC received many individual awards for merit and achievement. The American Legion, DAR, SAR, Women Marines, and Reserve Officers Association honored cadets who showed excellence in the program. Many cadets were also members of the Devil Dogs Drum and Bugle Corps, who had some hassles during the year over practice noise.

Many awards were given to students who excelled in athletics and spirit. Cheryl Paige won the Miss All Star Cheerleader Award at the State All Star Cheerleading Clinic held in Tampa. Sheri Nichols was voted Cheerleader of the Year and Natalie Nahon was Tornadoette of the Year.

The girls' cross country team placed first in the state and five Tornado football players were selected for the first team on the All Sun Country Football Team by the Clearwater Sun.

Life outside of Clearwater High meant something different to everyone. Finding out what was going on over the weekend usually started on Monday at 7 a.m. and ended on 7 p.m. Friday night. Activities included parties, picnics, concerts, days at the beach, and just about anything under the sun. Many memorable moments were spent on campus in the traditional events such as Homecoming and Graduation.

Court Illuminated Homecoming

Homecoming '76 was centered around the theme "Scalp the Chiefs." Although several Tornados' heads were also clean shaven, they still managed to scalp Chamberlain 34-23.

Crowning the Queen, as usual, was the climax of the Homecoming festivities. Kathie Rice was given this honor during Tornado Tales. Skits and the parade also added to the fun, the traditional "after the game" dance was an appropriate ending to the Homecoming celebration.

Evening hours brought new activities to the end of the day. Walking through the brightly illuminated grounds of the Florida State Fair or finding out about making it into a club by being awakened at 4 in the morning for initiation were some of the late night activities enjoyed by students.

Good Times Rang At Silverbell

The Silverbell Ball and the Sweetheart Dance were the two dances in which girls had the opportunity to ask boys for a date. The Silverbell was held at the Sheraton Sand Key and was a great way to start the holiday season. The music was provided by Masque.

The Sweetheart Dance was held for the first time at the Clearwater Beach Hilton. About 150 couples attended and listened to the sounds of Toulouse. Lori Lutz, escorted by Bob Bowes, was crowned Sweetheart Queen at the dance, which had the theme Precious and Few.

School was dismissed the following day — which, of course, was warmer with no snow.

Snow Day Drifted Into CHS

For the first time in sixteen years, snow fell in Clearwater. One half inch of snow remained on the ground until mid-day on January 19, 1977. New Clearwater High activities were brought about by this rare occurrence: snowball fights, building miniature snowmen, and eating snow confections. Some Florida crackers got their first sight and taste of snow.

Almost Anything Went

With a total of 3750 students, there was a diversity of activities in and around school. Students participated in class activities which deviated from the usual class lectures to attending club activities outside of school. 1977 was a year with many out-of-the-ordinary things to do.

The 1976 Olympics brought about a new interest in sports activities. On weekends, clubs participated in competitive matches of football, baseball, and basketball. Frisbee throwing, ballet, skateboarding and skiing were a few inexpensive ways to enjoy free time. The Rowdies and Buccaneers provided an opportunity for unathletic people to participate in the sports craze.

Largo Trashed Clearwater

Clearwater and Largo students had their own fun and games before the main event: the football game. Largo's students were busy messing up Clearwater High while Clearwater's students were up to the same tricks at Largo. Students were permitted to miss classes to clean up Largo's mess. The annual rivalry produced excitement even though the Tornadoes lost.

The toilet paper companies' profits went up when students found more interesting uses for it. Toilet paper was used for giving birthday surprises, showing people that others cared, and even showing revenge. Students found a challenge in toilet-papering houses and cars by trying to do it quietly and also making their work an art.

Satisfaction Soared Sky High

The Clearwater High students who took time from their busy activities to slow down and look at the beauty around them found that this time was worthwhile. Everytime a person turned his head, a new building went up. With Clearwater becoming bigger and bigger, its beauty is becoming smaller. Students took time to go to beaches, parks, and woods to enjoy the nature that is disappearing.

Rock Stars Sounded Off In Bay Area

As the Tampa Bay area became known as a profit-making place for concerts, more and more major bands and singers played Bayfront, Curtis-Hixon and Lakeland. Music interest ranged from country to easy-listening to rock. Plenty of bands came to satisfy all these tastes.

Among the groups and vocalists to delight the crowds were the Eagles, Chicago, Jimmy Buffett and Lynyrd Skynyrd. Concerts served to relax and please people and also to empty their people and also to empty their pockets.

(right) Ralph Bobo, an intern at Mease Hospital, gets the practice needed for his future career in surgery.

The Pinellas County School system gave some students the opportunity to get involved in their planned careers. Local TV stations, hospitals, animal hospitals, and other local businesses allowed students to intern in their places. From this opportunity students had a taste of what a skilled job was really like. High school internship lasted one semester. These students did not have to attend regular school classes while interning, but received some high school credit.

Mid-Year Graduates Decreased

Mid-year graduation '77 was possibly the last mid-term graduation ceremony to be held at Clearwater High School. The high cost and expense of the ceremony was too great to continue it 144 seniors graduated on January 17, 1977. Robin Pohley and Dan Farnam addressed the class and the benediction was given by Lori Eisenschmidt.

The administration and faculty of CHS are dedicated to helping and extending the learning abilities of its students. The departments try to offer the most informative and interesting classes for students to take. Interaction with students, advising clubs, and spending time around school to learn what is going on makes the Clearwater High faculty a unique breed.

William Tsacrios (above) was among the five finalists for teacher of the year from Pinellas County, and Clearwater High School teacher Don Chamberlin (right) was successful in defeating incumbent Richard Deeb for a seat in the Florida State Senate.

Surprises Beset Williams

Under Principal Garnett Williams' careful guidance and hard work, two long-awaited projects were accomplished: central air conditioning and a new gym floor. During his third year as principal he worked hard trying to incite school spirit.

Goodbread Led Morning Flight

This year the assistant principals were assigned a certain area to work with. Mr. Russell Stichler was in charge of the physical plant and the afternoon session. Mr. Larry Goodbread was curriculum director and in charge of the morning session. Mr. George Shoup was in charge of vocational units and also served as assistant to the registrar. They were mainly concerned with their own area but also worked with Mr. Williams on other areas of importance.

Security Sought Skippers

A second semester addition to the CHS staff was James Skala, who acted as fulltime school security officer. He helped the deans with problems of cutting classes, thefts, drugs, trespassers and other campus disorders.

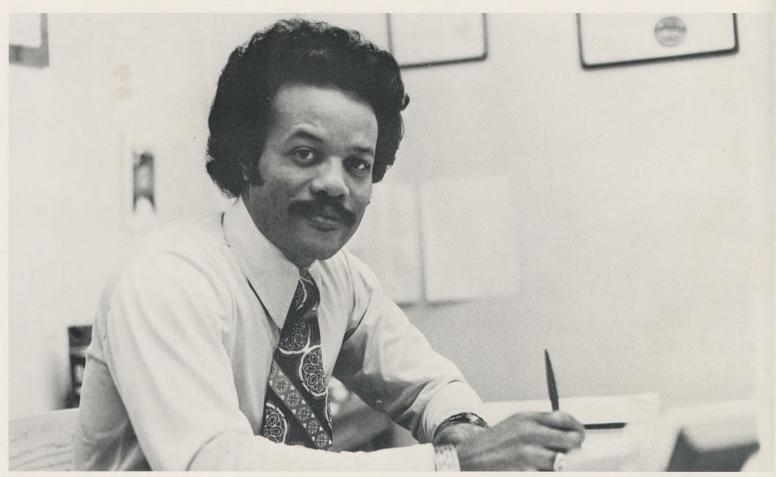

Arthur Rowland remained the CHS Evening School Principal and guided older students who wanted to be retrained, newly trained, or upgraded in certain skills. One hundred sixteen evening school teachers taught about 11,000 students during the 12-month school year.

Deans Demonstrated Discipline

The deans carried out their regular duties this year with a surprising number of only ten out-of-school suspensions the first semester. Students facing suspension had the choice of coming to school early and writing a composition or choosing to take in-school suspension. As always, those skipping classes kept the deans busy tracking them down.

Counselors Worked Over Schedules

As always, the Guidance Counselors tried to make themselves available to students needing help with a problem. At the beginning of each semester their main concern was adjusting schedules with errors and trying to keep class loads from becoming too large.

Elaine Jablonski stayed in charge of counselors and devised a new senior card system. At the end of the year, juniors and coun-selors worked together to fill out cards listing courses required for graduation, which must be taken their senior year.

Administrators Mastered Agenda

As usual, Ron Isackson worked at trying to expand the curriculum and implement new programs. Difficulty in finding time for students to attend athletic practice, scheduling courses offered only one period, and offering more vocational programs were problems he dealt with as registrar. The possibility of a five-period day in the future seemed to promise aid to his problems.

Hal Reddick, activities director, met many challenges in keeping the scheduling for dances, car-washes, games, matches, plays and sales running without conflict. He also spent many hours keeping track of the eligibility of the hundreds of Tornado athletes and as adviser to C-Club.

Secretaries Recorded Year

Typing, answering questions, taking messages, and mimeographing — it was all part of a secretary's day. Dorothea Nee remained head secretary at CHS and Mr. Williams right hand and Mr. Goodbread's left.

Sharon Cerci became secretary for Mr. Reddick, with Frances Desaulniers taking Mrs. Cerci's place in Pod B. Linda Bowen replaced Judy Boring as English Dept. secretary at mid-year.

Rivalry Caused Extra Cleanups

The Custodial Staff, headed by Jim Smart, spent many long hours scrubbing away the "artwork" of rival schools and picking up the litter left on campus by students.

Despite high national inflation rates, the cafeteria snack bar was able to keep food prices the same. Cafeteria manager, Edell Hogue continued to cope with the declining double sessions clientele.

Two books and three teachers were added to the Math Department, under the chairmanship of Kenneth Hager. Linda Lawson, (first semester), Robert Muldrow, and Mary Anne Saclarides (CHS '72) came to aid the department. Class enrollments were particularly high and a shortage of books resulted.

Under the supervision of William Blyshak, the Science Department had approximately 2500 pupils taking one or more science courses and 20 full time teachers. Chemistry and Biology enrollment dramatically increased.

In its first year of use, the Green Frog Creek Outdoor Science lab helped over 400 students practice their various horticultural and agricultural interests. However, in January, the big freeze and snow caused problems. Luckily, most of the garden was harvested before the freeze, and only a few vegetables and flowers were lost to the icy temperatures.

Good Old Days Were Recalled

Exceptionally motivated students were given a chance to excel and obtain college credit by taking the new Advanced Placement American History class. Urban Geography was offered to freshmen for the first time.

Shirts Flaunted Foreign Phrases

CHS maintained one of the largest foreign language departments in the state, headed by Jimmy Baggett. Six languages were offered this year with two new classes, Conversational Greek and Russian. New books were purchased for four languages.

T-shirts were sold this year to create more foreign language interest. They appeared with such slogans as "Le Français est Fantastique," "Deutsche ist Wunderbar," and "Viva el Español"

Artists Dipped In Deeper

Ellen Blewitt conducted the Art Department in a year when four new courses were added to the curriculum, replacing the Independent Study courses. They consisted of Painting II, Drawing II, Sculpture II, and Ceramics II. The courses were offered to students who felt one semester was insufficient to give them an adequate background in one medium.

Michael Bolam, a second semester addition last year, became a fulltime faculty member this year.

Ceramics students worked on designs for mosaic murals around the campus.

Department, under the direction of Herbert Dudley, found itself disrupted with the placement of the new gym floor. Gym sports had to be postponed until later in the year when it was finished.

Volleyball and swimming were teachers in lieu of the approach of Title IX, which states that all

P.E. classes will be co-educational

P.E. classes will be co-educational except in contact sports. For the first time, showering was made optional.

New Ideas Simmered In '77

The Unique Boutique, which opened last year, was unable to open this year because not enough students were enrolled in the Specialty Sewing class. However, the Home Economics Department, under the leadership of Dorothy Way, had more morning students enrolled than ever before.

A controlled state-wide study of Gregg shorthand versus the new Century 21 shorthand was undertaken by the Business Education Department. CHS was one of three schools in the county to take part in the study.

Data-processing received new accounting and key-punch machines. Anna Thompson interned with Maritsa Hourdas and department chairman, Ivan Werkhiser. Janice Rutledge was moved second semester to teach at Northeast High.

Coaches Played Cops

The Driver's Education Department issued traffic tickets for the first time to learning drivers who violated range laws. All students began with a 100 per cent test grade, and points were taken off for each ticket issued. A violation of speeding subtracted twenty points, not stopping at a stop sign took away fifteen more points, etc. Department chairman, Gerald MacManamon, was pleased to have new Trans Ams, among other driver training cars, donated for class use by local car dealers.

ROTC Moved In Style

The Clearwater High Marine Corps JROTC has been in operation for five years. The cadet company was 140 members strong, including 42 girl members

Unit participation in parades, color guard ceremonies, two Marine Corps birthday celebrations, physical fitness meets, rifle matches, drill competitions, and civic activities kept cadets busy. Members also learned to drive jeeps, rode amphibious tractors in Tampa Bay, and flew in helicopters over CHS.

With over thirty clubs and organizations at Clearwater High, students had an abundance of ways to express themselves and perform civic duties. Afterschool hours were spent beautifying the campus and participating in activities to develop leadership and character. The Junior Classical League, formed to initiate an interest in reading, was the only new club set up at CHS in 1977.

Pep Club Animated Games

As the Spirit of "76" rolled out with the Bicentennial, the Pep Club's membership was cut in half. The 30 girls remaining in this year's Pep Club, however, refused to let the apparent lack of student interest dampen their abundant spirit.

The annual Clearwater Largo football game as usual roused enthusiasm among the students. The Pep Club, sponsored by Connie Mathews, included itself in the excitement by writing pep letters to all the players. Before the home games, the Pep Club made signs for the football players to run through.

For Homecoming, the Pep Club sold hydrogen-filled balloons to the crowd. At half-time the crowd let loose of the balloons and they, along with the Pep Club's spirit, rose high.

Frosh Fired Up Fans

Second place was awarded to the freshman cheerleaders this year at the All Star Cheerleaders State Meet. The eight-member squad, sponsored by Mrs. Pauline Hess, cheered for the freshman boys' basketball and football teams and also for the girls' varsity basketball team. Sandra Rice and Beth Wells held the positions of co-captains. Because of the lack of funds, the cheerleaders were unable to purchase new uniforms.

JV Heightened Team Morale

The Clearwater High J.V. cheerleading squad, made up of eight members, won awards this year at the All Star Cheerleading Clinic. The jayvee squad placed second above all other squads competing. Leading the squad were captains Susan Reddick and Mary McCauley while Beth Floyd sponsored the girls for her first year.

The squad participated in several carwashes and donut sales to buy new uniforms. To promote spirit and get the football and basketball teams fired up, the locker rooms were decorated before the games.

Varsity Voiced Spirit

Once again the Varsity Cheerleading Squad took on the competition and finished on top. Placing first at the ASCC Cheerleading Camp last July and being voted Most Spirited Squad by the other squads that competed. The Cheerleaders won first at the All Star Competition in Tampa for the second year in a row, with Cheryl Paige winning the title of Miss All Star Cheerleader, the best in the state.

Marilyn Reyes and Cheryl Paige were the co-captains for this year's spirited squad.

Tornadoettes Kicked Up Halftime Excitement

The Tornadoettes started out their year by attending a camp called Drill Team USA. Mrs. Daisy Brunson sponsored the girls as they performed at football halftimes, marched in all major parades and entertained at Tornado Tales. The 26 members chose Natalie Nahon as Miss Tornadoette. At Christmas time the Tornadoettes visited hospitals and gave baskets of fruit to the needy.

Usherettes Waved On Crowds

Rising with the sun to promote team pride, the Usherettes kept up the tradition of decorating Victory Hall with crepe paper and spirit posters. The sixteen member squad ushered at football and basketball games, PTA meetings, and both graduation ceremonies. Although selling programs, seating fans, and quieting the crowds were the main duties of the girls, the Usherettes developed their own kind of spirit. Pot Luck dinners were held before each game, and buttons were sold with the slogan, "Get Tough Tornadoes."

The traditional red blazers were discarded and bright new uniforms were worn. A car wash was held in September to raise money. Captains were Bev Sanders and Theresa Gentry.

Capital Heard Tornado Band

The band had an overall good year with more enthusiasm than they've had before. Beginning with the Bicentennial Tour to Washington, the band travelled to Jamestown, Coral Gables, and a superior rating in the Marching Band Contest. The band was honored when Louis Bellson played at JC and asked the CHS band to play with him. Money-making projects included the selling of candles, Tornado Tops, and tag day. The band marched in the Gasparilla Parade in Tampa. CHS hosted a Knoxville band for the Fun 'N' Sun parade, with the visitors staying in the homes of CHS band members.

Majorettes Twirled With Talent Through Halftime

With the addition of new flags and uniforms, the majorettes marched in solo and ensemble competitions, at football games, the Clearwater Christmas parade, and the Gasparilla parade in Tampa. Black flags with the skull and crossbone insignia were carried in the Gasparilla parade, while red and silver candy canes were carried in the Christmas parade.

More than fourteen hours of after school practice was spent each week perfecting routines. At District Marching Contest in Plant City they received outstanding comments and enjoyed a summer trip to Washington, D.C. with the band.

Wrestlerettes Stunned Opposition

The Wrestlerettes, in their second year, added much to the spirit of the wrestling team. The girls surprised most visiting wrestling teams since very few teams had their very own cheerleaders.

Sponsors Amy Rice and Terry Quessenberry helped the 10 girls who were chosen as Wrestlerettes earlier in the school year. Practices were held on Saturday mornings. In addition to making signs to be put up around the campus, the Wrestlerettes went to all the meets to cheer the wrestlers on.

The girls found oranges a practical way to quench the wrestlers' thirsts.

Winds Of Change Touched CHS Choirs

Windsong wafted into the Clearwater community performing many snappy song and dance routines at shopping centers, elementary and junior high schools, club meetings, and other places. Students were chosen for Windsong the previous spring on the basis of their vocal and dancing abilities.

The wish of 9th and 10th grade students to have their own "junior Windsong" became a reality with the formation of Seabreeze. Seabreeze, like Windsong, enjoyed singing light tunes plus adding dance steps to coordinate with the music. These students met daily before the afternoon session started to rehearse popular songs.

Performers Sang Out

While Freshmen and sophomores had their own individual choirs, the Concert Choir was made up of a combination of juniors and seniors. The Choirs rehearsed during classtime, and performed antyhing from classicals to spirituals to love ballads. The main events of the year were the presentation of the Christmas Vespers and the spring concerts. Hoping to attract new faces for next year, the music department held an ensemble in the spring featuring both the band and choirs.

ROTC Disciplined Minds And Bodies

The MCJROTC unit was a unique group compared to the rest of CHS organizations. The unit managed to combine dedication, service projects, and competition with fun.

The unit was involved in parades, color guard ceremonies, two Marine Corps birthday celebrations, physical fitness meets, rifle matches, and drill competitions. The cadets were involved in civic activities, as well.

On the fun side, activities included girls' camp-outs, picnics, riding the amphibious tractors in Tampa Bay, jeep-driving lessons, riding high over Clearwater in HUEY helicopters, and a weeklong trip to the Naval Amphibious Base at Little Creek, Virginia. To salute the year, there was a banquet and dance at the Holiday Inn.

Lt. Colonel Ralph Moody and Sergeant Major Troy Hamm were the assigned Marine Instructors for the five-year old unit. The cadet company, some 140 strong and including 42 girls, was headed by Ed Lutz and Rick Williams.

Sponsored by the Lion's Club of Clearwater, the three-year-old Leo Club proved itself to be a busy service organization. During the Christmas holidays, members visited Druid Hills Nursing Home and every month, donated $10 to the Marine Science Center. Car washes, and a flea market provided the needed funds.

Picnics, parties, a putt-putt golf tournament, a pedal-pushing bike-a-thon, and the Dance Marathon, held in December provided Leos with social opportunities to keep active in the community.

Leo Club was an international organization and attended a State Convention toward the end of the year.

Debators Dug Up Facts

President George Gramling was selected the Most Outstanding Participant at "Springboards" Debate workshop at USF. A few of the activities were 30-member club participated in were the National Debate Tournament at Emory University, the "Barkley Forum," State NFL Debate Tournament and the Florida Forensics State Debate Tournament. Andy Anderson was again the advisor of NFL this year.

When WTAN changed management, Take-Five switched stations and went over the air with WOKF, more commonly known as FM96. The station was not the only change the five minute news show made, however, as the Tampa Bay area listened at a new time. The show was broadcast Saturday mornings at 9:00, and gave information of activities in, about, and around CHS.

Still another change for the Take-Five staff was competition from other area high schools starting their own shows.

The Take-Five staff spent a lot of time researching, writing, and rehearsing the weekly show, which contained news about CHS clubs, sports, and special features. This year's special features editor, Karla Haun, received her own show on FM96 which was broadcast three times daily.

Interact Attacked Projects

The Interact Club, sponsored by the Clearwater Rotary Club, got off to a slow start, but as the year ended they engaged in many activities. Student-Teacher aides were sent to the Clearwater Exceptional Student Center and the club's section of the front yard was kept in well order. In the annual Key Club-Interact basketball match, Interact was defeated, but the club is already looking for revenge next year. Several Interact members helped out at the Rotary Invitational Swim Meet selling drinks and snacks. Many members attended the Rotary Club luncheons each Wednesday noon. Plans for a formal spring dance were made.

Key Club Sold Secrets

The Key Club of Clearwater High School became extremely active in civic activities in '77. With the advent of swine flu vaccinations, volunteer work was done at Clearwater Mall and the city annex by members. Money was raised with such activities as dance-a-thon sponsors, and selling calendars and Secret Agent utility cleaner. A project was started to rejuvenate the school marquee on Gulf-to-Bay, and the Tornado emblem on the old gym floor was reconstructed. Fun activities included a floatdown with the Keyettes on Crystal River, initiation rites at 4 a.m., and the great streak at Clearwater Central Catholic's Homecoming game.

Keyettes Shot Out New Ideas

With new sponsors, Miss Saclarides and Mrs. Hartl, new ideas and projects were started. An apple sale was held in February and the Keyettes helped the Big Sisters with Christmas present wrapping at Sunshine Mall. The annual 50's dance and Loveograms were held and also Keyettes initiated the new Key Club members. The Keyettes along with the Key Clubbers helped the County Health Department with the swine flu shots.

Fathom Sales Hit High Tide

Fathoms is a magazine made by the students. Jon Toigo was Editor and the Assistant Editor was Julie Olson. The staff was composed of twenty members chosen from applicants from the student body. No experience was required.

Fathoms was divided into business staff, editorial board, art board, circulation, and publicity. The editorial board members sifted through contributions made by the students. Anything from a couple of haiku to a sonnet or home prints, to lyka mainiac pictures were accepted.

Aqua Clara Bridged Over Troubled Waters

With many returning staffers, a promising '77 edition of the Aqua Clara was expected.

Under advisor Tom Pierce and editor Paul Ziga, the staff worked after school and on weekends to meet pressing deadlines. Mr. Pierce, Paul, Liza Carter, and David Lowell set a precedent by visiting Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, Texas where the book is produced. They also attended the National Scholastic Press Association convention in San Antonio. New staffers Bill Kranich, Ann Legatti, Ed Bryan, and Barb Roland were added after the beginning of the year.

The Clearlight began a new tradition this year with a new format which the St. Pete Times helped them to perfect. Staffers also learned a new skill, typesetting all their own copy at the Modern Media Institute in St. Pete. Clearlight felt that the new format was more attractive and up-to-date. There were 10 issues this year with 8 in color. The last issue was done solely by the junior and sophomore staffers.

Photographers Clowned Around

This year gave the CHS photographers many changes. Different types of equipment were changed. Also, the Aqua Clara's photographers' number more than doubled. Although this helped in some ways, it also led to lost film, negatives, and prints. Photographers Mike Heath and Ed Neubaum left mid-year while Barbara Roland and Ed Bryan joined the Aqua Clara Staff. Several of the photographers made pictures more special by using special effects. More photographers competed for awards at the PSPA state convention.

Germans Navigated To CHS

After months of correspondence, students from Marburg, Germany finally met face-to-face with the CHS German Club. Thus began the club's main project—the annual SES exchange program, which lasted three weeks.
Sponsor Mr. Baggett and counselor Dr. Morris coordinated this year's exchange.

Fund-raising projects such as candy sales, tee-shirt sales, and a bike-a-thon helped pay for various trips to Disney World, the Kennedy Space Center, and a Rowdies soccer game.

Mardi Gras Topped Events

Through the babble of voices several languages could be heard. Is this some elite party of the international jet set? No, it was the CHS International Club having one of its four annual happenings.

The first event was the Oktoberfest held at the Espritu Santo Church. The festival had a real German flavor with Bratwurst, knockwurst, and pretzels. The 130 members also took part in the Spanish Fiesta, with pinatas the drawing attraction. The French Mardi Gras was a success with year's theme of hats. Some wild, and original creations showed up for judging. The year ended with the Latin club having a Roman Banquet.

Y-Teens Washed To Dance

While several clubs had just a few special events during the school year, the Y-teens were involved in many activities to keep them busy throughout the year. The Y-teens visited a detention home and gave a party at the Child Development Center for the underprivileged. The club planned a fashion show for April. To raise funds for the annual Sweetheart Dance, the Y-teens held a carwash.

Classical World Was Discovered

The former Latin Club started a new year under a new name — The Junior Classical League. The club encouraged students to have an interest in the Greek and Roman cultures, and to have an understanding of our own debt to the ancient cultures.

Members attended state and national conventions. The CHS chapter had ten students bring back ribbons from the District Forum in the areas of sports, Roman customs, and vocabulary.

AFS Future Dimmed

After being an organization for nearly twenty years, the American Field Service seemed to be coming to an end at Clearwater High. Unlike other foreign exchange programs at CHS, AFS had to supply the money for the exchange students to come to Clearwater, and, unfortunately, for the past few years AFS has not been able to afford a student. To make matters worse, there was no longer any adult chapter for AFS at Clearwater High.

Therefore, because of lack of leadership by the CHS faculty and Clearwater community adults, and because of lack of funds, the future of AFS looked gloomy.

"Death" Staged An Appearance

Death walked upon the stage of Clearwater High, as the Thespians put on the fall production "Death Takes a Holiday." In the comedy, Death, portrayed by Jon Toigo, took a 3-day vacation on Earth to discover why man feared him so. During his vacation, Death realized his own mortal feelings, and fell in love with Grazia, played by Mindi Rowlan. The show was directed by sponsor Phil Morron while Deann Drury stage-managed.

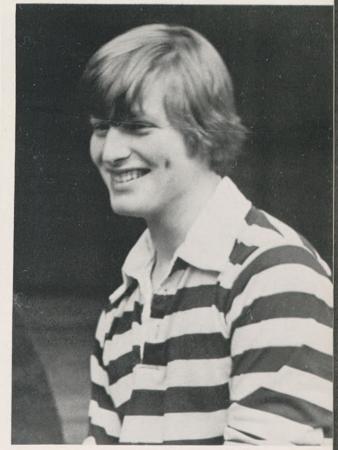

The Thespians also put on "The Robin Hood Caper" for a spring show. The production was presented to both sessions as a matinee, as well as a night perform-

Council Enforced Stickers

The Student Council, headed by President Jon Toigo and Sponsors Dorothy Way and Joan Scott, carried out many activities.

They worked for the Prevention of Blindness Walk-a-Thon and Cystic Fibrosis. The Homecoming Dance, raised money for campus beautification.

Parking stickers, sold by the council, came in handy second semester when sticker-less cars were towed away.

The Students Rights and Responsibilities Committee met with the School Board concerning exam weight and exemptions.

CHO Gained Medical Experience

Co-operative Health Occupations members earned medical training while working in area hospitals, dentist offices, and nursing homes. Diane Hernan, RN, advised the students in their pursuit of a medical career. CHO also sponsored an employeremployee banquet in May and sold "Secret Agent," a household cleaner.

FBLA Sought Dimes

Future Business Leaders of America, under the leadership of Clegg Miller, enjoyed a winning year. Members won a National award for a flag presentation, Laurel Rubing was in Who's Who for FBLA, and Mark Smith was runner-up for Mr. FBLA. In contests for football posters, which the players ran through, FBLA won first place twice. Members also participated in a March of Dimes Drive and attended a State Conference in Miami.

The AV assistants transported the audio-visual equipment from the library to classrooms. Films, cassettes, and overhead projectors aided the teachers greatly. AV Coordinators Julie Noah and Katie Meriam took charge of the equipment.

The Clearwater High students in Junior Achievement shared their meeting place with Largo High, and together they formed about five companies. The companies were sponsored by community businesses, and this year the JA members made and sold terrariums.

Advertising tycoons, fashion queen, or perhaps a mannequin designer were some of the possibilities DECA students can attain in the business world. DECA taught the students such things as merchandising, arranging displays, sales demonstrations and fast food service. Competing against other schools was part of the training. The girls in DECA attracted many on-lokers at their fashion show last October. With the hopes of making a small profit the latest fall fashions were modeled by dancing DECA students. With the help of the instructor the students found jobs that allowed them to use their training. At the end of the school year a banquet is held to honor the employer.

DCT Won Dist. 7 Award

DCT students learned the art of the business world under the leadership of John Roberts and Gene Risner. The students attended the District 7 contest at the Sheraton-Sand Key. CHS's DCT students had a first place winner in these contests.

The purpose of DCT is to teach students practical skills. To do so, parttime jobs are found for the students.

Drafters' Maps Aided Wanderer

In its second year of organization, the Drafting Club laid out several service projects. In order for both new and night school students to find their way around the drafters placed maps around campus. Members also planned new steps for the platform used during graduation, and considered landscaping around the industrial arts building. The group was led by President Mike Pearson, while Delmus Green advised the group.

The athletic ability of students at Clearwater High is indisputably the best in the area. Practices were held at all hours after school to insure quality performances. The girls' cross country team placed first in the state and all three boys' basketball teams were number one in their conferences. The Tornado football team had its first winning season in three years and the swim teams tried to improve on their third and fourth place state rankings of last year.

Tornadoes Turned The Tables

The Tornado football team wound up with a winning season. Led by captains Rick Miller, and co-captains Stuart Futch, Paul Niesen, Pete Smith, Don Toscano, and under the reins of Coach Brown, the team confronted some tough opponents, and marked up a 6-4 record.

The Florida High School Activities Association introduced a few new rule changes, all in the interest of safety. Players were no longer permitted to use face tackling or butt-blocking in stopping the opponent, leaving the emphasis on shoulder tackling and body blocking. Additionally, it became mandatory that all players wear hip and shoulder pads.

A new rivalry started this year with Dunedin. Local businesses joined in the activities by presenting outstanding offensive and defensive awards. Tornado back Mark Franzman won the

For one week the annual Clearwater-Largo game was forgotten as the Tornadoes came face to face with Seminole for the district title. The Warhawks came back in the last minute to beat the Tornadoes 26-21.

The following week the Tornadoes took on Largo, which was held at Jack White Stadium. The Tornadoes played tremendous football in the last game of their '76 season.

Quickness Dazzled Opposition

The varsity basketball team swept the area with speed and determination. Following the leadership of captain Bob Parks, the team took first in the conference with 16-2 and 22-5 overall. Battling with injuries and disciplinary problems the team endured many hardships but kept Tornado Pride alive.

The Tornado duo Bob Parks and Jimmy Aronson were high scorers with 18.4 and 18.1 points respectively. The leading rebounder was Scott Nicholas, who finished the season early because of a hand injury.

The team began the season winning the third annual Tip Off Tournament over Central Catholic. Bob Parks was selected Most Valuable Player of the tournament.

Coach Wilson commented, "It has been an extremely satisfying season with respect to the various problems that we endured in losing some players but ending up with a better team. Because of this, the team has pulled together more. Outstanding quickness and great togetherness was shown in the later part of the season."

Tournaments Were Trying

This year the team to beat for the Tornadoes was Dunedin. After placing second in the Roy King Invitational behind them, the Tornadoes came back to beat Dunedin 76-75 in a standing room only crowd. Departing midseason were Bob Bowes, Kirk Smith, Don Barnes, Ray Barnes, and Clinton Fitzpatrick. Leaving the team with only nine players. Four outstanding players moved up from jayvees for the Regional Tournament. The Tornadoes became eligible for the semifinals by beating Largo 57 to 41 and then losing to Northeast 79 to 61.

Jayvees Kept Ball Rolling

The jayvee basketball team ruled the Pinellas County Conference, receiving the number one rank, with 23 wins and 2 losses. Tim Borowicz and Chris Cruder were chosen co-captains.

Borowicz lead in scoring averaging 13.6 points per game, with teammate Brent Currier leading in rebounds.

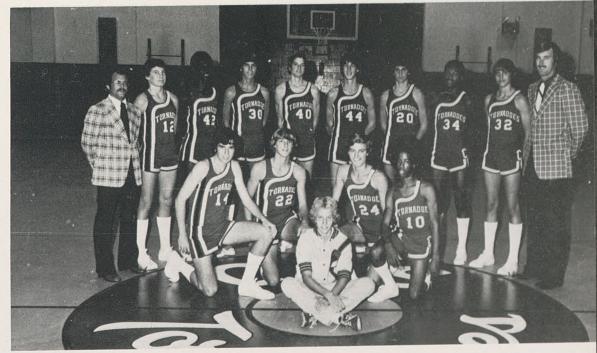

The team hosted a Christmas Tournament in which 12 teams participated and the jayvees took first place. Tim Borowicz was chosen the Most Valuable Player of the tournament and also of the Tornado Team. Other CHS awards were given to Bill Baker for the most improved, and Brent Currier as best defensive player. Bill Mathews once again coached the team.

Frosh Dribbled Past Opponents

The freshman basketball team dominated the conference following the example set by the varsity and jayvee teams. Under the direction of Coach Tom Anderson the team went undefeated and placed first in the conference.

Coach Anderson kept the team hustling throughout the season with 4 out of 5 starters scoring in double figures. The leading scorer was Jeff Hall and the leading rebounders were Jeff Ledbetter and Jeff Hall.

Tankers Splashed All Comers

With plenty of returning power, the '77 squad opened their season with a big splash, a dual meet against their most formidible opponent and rival, Largo. Braving temperatures in the 40s and a wind that put the chill factor in the teens, the Tornado Tankers packed up the Packers, boys and girls, swimming and diving. From then on it was downstream paddling. From the Rotary Invitational in their own Bobby Walker Pool and Lyman Tournament in Orlando through many dual meets on the road and at home, the swimming folks with superior strokes headed toward top honors in the district finals and the state meet in Fort Lauderdale. Standouts all season were All-Americans George Bowers in butterfly, and Kathy Rice and Mike Dean in backstroke, plus sprinter Dave Crisler, breaststroker Jared Brown, divers Patty Leptrone and Bruce Schrimer.

Jared Brown and Amy Marnie were captain and co-captain respectively, of the team that cheered about being "Number One" and went almost a million yards to prove it.

Parents and supporters rallied round when the extreme Winter of S-S-Seventy-s-s-seven temperatures threatened to deplete the heating fuel for Bobby Walker pool. Thousands of dollars were raised through sales of placques, records and concession goodies at the meets. Through the chlorinated monotony of two practices a day in rain, shine and even snow, Coaches Don Prokes and John Tsacrios kept spirits up with bizarre strategies and suprises like new team warm-ups and sweater-and-jeans outfits.

Clearwater Golfers Trapped Triumphs

The golf team holed out their '76-'77 season with a fourth place ranking in the conference. The two returning lettermen, Tim King and Steve Henderson, held the first and second positions respectively.

Jim McClelland considered his first season as coach a "reasonable success." Clearwater Country Club was the site for both home matches and practices. In one practice round, Jim King showed the '77 team's caliber by dropping in a hole-in-one.

The bowling team rolled into victory winning the division playoffs held at Ten Pin Lanes. Dana Paulk was the boys' team captain and achieved the highest average in his group. Nancy Mink also held the captain position for the girls, with Laron Bacon holding the highest average. Coach Lew Fradkin guided the team.

The high school was again in conflict with the bowling team as to whether it would be recognized as a school sponsored sport. The members scheduled a car wash in order to raise money for uniforms. Matches and practices were held at Hi-Lan Lanes.

The 3400 students who attend Clearwater High School represent a broad assortment of cultures, backgrounds, and lifestyles. Coming from every corner of the city in all modes of transportation, students occupied the halls for ten hours and fifteen minutes daily. Names from A to Z filled the teachers rolls, and increased absenteeism became a definite problem at CHS.

The senior class racked up a busy year with such activities as producing a first place Tornado Tales float and keeping the campus clean and attractive. The warning was out — buy your bumper sticker or else . . . This spring the seniors sold Tornado Warning bumper stickers, caps and gowns, and held a breakfast at the Kapok Tree for the senior class to raise money for graduation ceremonies. On May 20th the seniors had a chance to mouse around with Mickey at Disney World. For just one fee the students were given the opportunity to dress up and enjoy a long evening of live music and entertainment. As students counted down the last school days, seniors were faced with the age old problem of what to do next. Many took off for college right away while others chose to join the working class.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Polly Jackson, Vice-President; Chip Morgan, President; Lizz Krentzman, Secretary; Marilyn Reyes, Treasurer.

The juniors held class meetings every Thursday after school to discuss plans for coming weeks.

Spirit week started off the Homecoming activities for the juniors. They built a float which took 2nd place, decorated the school on Friday morning before the game, and created the C.H.S.

Football Grave Yard.

Fund raising, under the leadership of President Alice Harra and advisor Robert Furney, went well. Car washes, donut sales and the sale of Candy Grams at Christmas brought in money for Prom. Class dues collections were planned for second semester.

Sophs Swung Into Year

The sophomore class got off to a good start under the direction of sponsor Stella Whitmon and President Carol Culkar. Besides decorating the sophomore bulletin board, the class came in third place during Homecoming float competition. Tenth grade students were not required to take Drivers Education but many took the course anyway. Plans were made to sell red and gray bean bag frogs and to hold a sock hop.

Frosh Barrelled Through Year

Increasing school spirit with a newly decorated and eyecatching bulletin board and a parking lot clean-up project were just two of the many projects which this year's enthusiastic freshman class undertook. Fourteen eager candidates clamored to serve the class as officers. Those chosen were Michelle Laurents as president, Suzanne Strayer as vice president, Janet Thomas as treasurer, and Sharon Parker as secretary.

Members of this lively class Christmas caroled in the chorus, and blared and blasted in the band. Others agonized through Civics, beginning language courses and Typing I where many discovered they had too heavy a thumb. Freshman girls survived tennis and the uneven bars while the stopwatch challenged the guys on the track and field.

Sharon Parker, Secretary; Suzanne Strayer, Vice President; Janet Thomas, Treasurer.

The businessmen of Clearwater have built a large productive community from an eager-to-grow small town. A wide variety of places to go, things to do, and people to see attracts persons from all over the country. This thriving tourism, along with the needs of the city, have incited a feeling of pride and set community standards that our merchants have kept up for years. The long-awaited Countryside Mall opened and efforts were redoubled to revitalize the downtown area. The new traffic loop eased congestion for the beachbound.

Mark Stewart takes a casual approach to tennis.

The city of Clearwater was stunned on January 19, 1977, when snow fell and stayed on the ground for the first time in the city's history. All over the state of Florida, orange growers were afraid of massive crop losses, but ironically, the citrus growers produced a record crop. A historical park was developed in Seminole where antique structures from all over the county were transported. Wimpies Pub reopened with a new sound after being closed for several months, and an irate laborer set fire to the Coachman cabin, destroying the only remnant of a bygone era.

Local televisions were tuned in to the premier of "Roots," the story of a man's quest for his ancestry. The moving story gave area viewers a graphic look at slavery in the South and the ensuing struggle for freedom.

Nation Saw New Horizons

In July of 1976, photographs were taken of a place man has never seen before — the planet Mars. Viking 1 and Viking 2 presented Earth with invaluable information on the geology and atmosphere of the red plant.

Oil spills occurred on coastlines all over the nation producing health hazards and wastes. Earthquakes rocked the world with casualties as high as 100,000 in the Peking quake and 4,000 in eastern Turkey. War broke out in Lebanon; splitting the tiny nation into Moslem and Christian factions.

Ronald McDonald beams to delighted onlookers.

Patricia Hearst made the headlines when she was convicted and sentenced to seven years for bank robbery. A bus driver and 26 children were kidnapped and left buried for 24 hours before the driver led the way to freedom. On the other side of the world, Israeli commandos made the most daring rescue in history by freeing 102 Jewish hostages at Entebbe airport in Uganda.

Many noted personalities died during the year, and the nation's morals were questioned when capital punishment became reinstated. Entertainers Peter Finch, Godfrey Cambridge, Rosiland Russell, and Jack Cassidy passed away. So did billionaire recluses J. Paul Getty and the man, whose existence was often wondered about, Howard Hughes. The men who shaped the present state of China, Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai left Chinese politics in a state of turmoil and went to join their ancestors.

Gary Gilmore was executed in Provo, Utah, by firing squad. Comedian Freddie Prinze could not take life any more and committed suicide.

Fourteen year-old Lesley Forret, a CHS freshman, lost her life in a tragic auto accident in February which injured three other CHS students.

A New Family Moved Into The White House

(right) In 1973 the panel of "What's My Line" couldn't guess who he was. In 1975 the people he told, "My name's Jimmy Carter. I'm running for President," thought he was some kind of nutty farmer. In 1976 he was Time's "Man of the Year," holder of the most powerful position in the world and not likely to go unrecognized ever again.

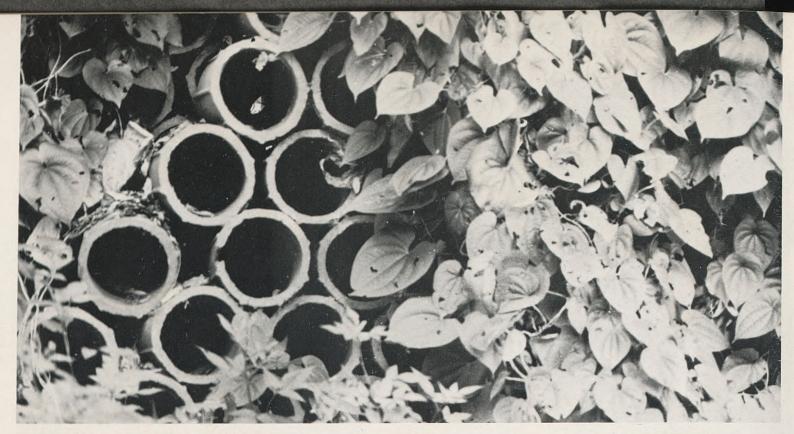

In one of the closest races in modern times, virtual unknown Jimmy Carter defeated President Gerald Ford to take over the most powerful position in the world. His first move as President was the granting of amnesty to all Vietnam war deserters. Representative Wayne Hays resigned from office after it was disclosed that he had been paying his secretary, Elizabeth Ray, $14,000 a year for sexual favors. Agricultural Secretary Earl Butz resigned after a controversy developed over an obscene racial joke he told in public.

The possibility of a swine flu epidemic incited a national program for vaccination while in Philadelphia, the mysterious "Legionnaires disease" killed 29 people, and left scientists baffled as to the origin of the disease.

The Olympics were brought into millions of homes and the name of Nadia Comaneci became a household word with one of the most dazzling displays of athletic ability ever. Tampa Bay's Bucaneers made sports history by being defeated in every regular season football game; the Minnesota Vikings, on a similar note, lost their fourth Super Bowl game to the Oakland Raiders.

Stevie Wonder's "Songs in the Key of Life" swept the Grammy awards along with George Benson, Chicago, and Linda Ronstadt. Ron Hitchcock, a 1964 graduate of CHS, was nominated for a technical award but lost to Benson.

The movies of the year were bigger and better than ever. The long awaited remake of "King Kong" was expected to break all box office records while "Rocky," "Network," "A Star is Born," "Carrie," "Silver Streak," and "The Omen" were big hits in the area.

Editor's Note

With a staff that everyone called 'perfect,' I was faced with the dilemma of satisfying each person's desires and developing their talents to make this a better book than '76. How-ever, personality conflicts, staff positions, and problems with too many photographers blew up in my face and with my underdeveloped use of tact, things got worse. But then again, all that talent was not going to be wasted and my bunch ignored their problems and got this book out on time.

When I look at all the people I could thank, I know I'll get carried away. I would like to give great thanks and appreciation to Andy Newitt whose perseverance and 'Give em hell' attitude got this book on its feet and moving. I would also like to thank Liza Carter, my head photographer, Ed Neubaum, Jim Haines, and the rest of the staff photographers. Thanks also goes to the Clearlight photographers who helped us on our final deadline and Nick Paull Photographic for special services. Great appreciation goes to Bryn Alan Studios for doing such a fantastic job on our color pictures and providing us with all of our photo supplies.

I can't thank my staff enough for coming through in the clincher and co-operating better than I've ever seen them before. Never have I seen an ad manager like Beth O'Malley who would go out and sell ads above her quota to fill her section because no one else could sell them. I would like to thank Cindy Siegelin and Doris Regulski for standing by me through the rough spots.

When I think of some of the things that happened this year like my car being T.P-ed five times and my body getting entwined in a web of masking tape, I wonder how I made it through the year. But there is only one reason why I made it through the year and that reason is Thomas C. Pierce. This man has got to be the greatest yearbook advisor in the world and I don't care what anyone says about him.

My function was getting this book to the student body on time and this is what I did. I therefore present this 1977 edition of the Aqua Clara to you. Sincerely,

Paul Ziga, Editor-in-Chief
